

WASHINGTON TO BE SCENE OF NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE BETWEEN PLENIPOTENTIARIES OF THE JAPANESE AND RUSSIAN GOVERNMENTS

JURY SOON TO HOLD FATE OF AGGIE MEYERS

Testimony Is Completed in Kansas City Murder Case and Attorneys Plead for and Against a Fatal Verdict.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 LIBERTY, Mo., June 10.—The case of Mrs. Aggie Meyers, on trial here for the alleged murder of her husband, will be given to the jury today.

The prosecuting attorney, in his argument today, demanded a verdict of murder in the first degree with hanging.

The attorneys for the defense insisted that Frank Hottman had plotted to kill Meyers so he could marry the woman, with whom he was infatuated, and that he had committed the crime with the aid of another man, name unknown, who, with Hottman, had blackened their faces to hide their identity.

At 3 o'clock this morning the defense closed its case with two witnesses, John T. Paul, Mrs. Meyers' uncle and Mrs. Mattie Cravens, his daughter.

They testified that the home life of Mr. and Mrs. Meyers was pleasant.

The State then began its rebuttal testimony. John L. Dougherty, assistant cashier of the Commercial Bank of Liberty, was shown the two letters Mrs. Hottman says she received from Mrs. Meyers, and which Mrs. Meyers denies she wrote, and he was shown two letters which Mrs. Meyers admits she wrote. He declared that, in his opinion, the four letters were written by the same hand. These letters are considered by the State to be convincing proof of guilt of Mrs. Meyers.

One was written to Mrs. Hottman by Mrs. Meyers a week or two after the murder, and in it Mrs. Meyers told that she was suspected of murder, and she indicated a statement of her side of the case, which she had given the police and she advised Mrs. Hottman that her daughters could tell the same story about Mrs. Meyers' relations with Frank Hottman. This letter was written before the police had heard of Hottman or suspected him of complicity in the murder.

The other letter was written by Mrs. Meyers after she and Hottman were in jail. It advised Mrs. Hottman to see Frank and tell him not to talk.

Upon the witness stand last night Mrs. Meyers denied writing these two letters and said they were written by Mary Schultz. Mrs. Hottman had testified that the first letter had been brought to her by Mary Schultz, who lived formerly in Higginsville and was a friend of both the Hottman and the Meyers families.

Mary Schultz and her sister, Nettie, have been here all week and were sworn as witnesses for Mrs. Meyers. Nettie was put upon the witness stand last night, and upon cross-examination of the state, admitted that at about the time Mrs. Hottman received the first letter, her sister, Mary Schultz, did take "something" from Mrs. Meyers to someone in Higginsville, but she did not know what it was.

After this admission, so damaging to the defense, the lawyers for Mrs. Meyers did not put Mary Schultz upon the stand.

For nearly an hour the defense cross-examined Mr. Dougherty, this morning, and tried to break down his testimony, but he gave more positive the more he compared the letters, that all were written by the same hand.

Mrs. Meyers took the stand in her own behalf last night. Her testimony was given and did not cover any points not covered by the statement she made to the police.

Beyond that, she was not permitted by her lawyers to go, and when it came to cross-examination her lawyers would not permit her to answer any questions about her relations with Hottman, or whether she had sent him money.

Burglars Like Mr. Frank.
 Herman Frank, proprietor of drug stores at Grand and Franklin avenues, and at 401 North Fourth street, has some reason for his belief that he is the special mark of drug store burglars. A week ago his South street drug store was entered and some cash, cigars and other articles taken. Thursday night his Franklin avenue store was visited in a similar manner. At that place was a large amount of booty obtained.

CLEVELAND TO BE AMONG TRUSTEES IN THE EQUITABLE

Former President Receives Notification of His Selection and Says He Thinks It His Duty to Accept Position Tendered.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 10.—Former President Cleveland said today that he had received official notification of his selection as one of three trustees of the Equitable Life Assurance Society and that he thought it his duty to accept the position.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 10.—"Poor old Equitable, it deserved a better fate," is today's comment throughout the city on the sale of Mr. Hyde's controlling interest to Thomas F. Ryan and associates.

Associated with Mr. Ryan in the group of policy holders who have bought Mr. Hyde's stock are 11 men. Among them are George Westinghouse, who carries $100,000 insurance in the Equitable; Samuel Newhouse of Salt Lake City, who has a policy for $400,000, and Justice Morgan J. O'Brien of the Supreme Court, who is insured for $100,000.

The actual number of shares which the group bought from Mr. Hyde is 501, in total issue of the capital stock being 1000 shares. The price paid was not named officially, but it was reported to be between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. The purchase seems to be regarded in Wall street as a clever scheme of Mr. Ryan to obtain possession of the Equitable's enormous assets to be borrowed by Mr. Ryan in digging tunnels in New York and in other huge projects.

One of these tunnels alone will require $100,000,000. All the dividends he can collect on his $50,100 of Equitable stock is $3007, or at the rate of 7 per cent, as the charter expressly forbids the paying of a greater rate. The sale to Mr. Ryan is said to have been a very keen disappointment to Edward H. Harriman and Henry C. Frick, both of whom resigned as directors of the Equitable on Friday of last week. Mr. Harriman, it is understood, had great railroad plans in view which called for the use of large sums of money.

Though Mr. George Gould was reported to have conducted the preliminary negotiations for the sale of Mr. Hyde's stock to undertake this work he had tried to purchase the stock held by Mr. Hyde, but that his propositions had been rejected. Mr. Gould's plans for transcontinental railroad by extending the Wabash system from Pittsburgh to the Atlantic Coast and for the construction of proposed Western Pacific road called for the use of very large sums. Mr. Gould, it is said, will now be forced to make financial arrangements with foreign bankers and will sail for Europe next week.

Both Harriman and Gould are said to have offered Mr. Hyde $5,000,000, but he then hoped to win out, and refused to sell.

Mr. Ryan has invited Grover Cleveland, Judge M. J. O'Brien and George Westinghouse to act as trustees of the stock which he has purchased.

Paul Horton, the newly-elected chairman of the Board of Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, said today that in plans for the reorganization of the society he intends to consider first of all the interests of the policy-holders.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO PICK UP $50? FIND IVAN WHIN

WATCH HIM TURN AROUND
 This is photograph No. 1 of a Man Who Will Answer to the Name of Ivan Whin for whom a $50 reward is offered. Picture taken from other angles will be printed subsequently making a kinetograph series of This Man turning around.

A man who will answer to the name of Ivan Whin is going about St. Louis looking for a man who wants $50.

Maybe you are the man. There is only one clue by which Ivan Whin may identify you. If you are the right man, you will say to him: "I recognize you as the Post-Dispatch novelist, Ivan Whin."

When you say this to him, he will admit his identity and escort you to the Post-Dispatch Building, where $50 will be paid you.

Mr. Whin has a theory. He contends that it is possible for a man to live in a city like St. Louis indefinitely, escaping recognition or detection, although hundreds of persons may be looking for him.

He claims, with Detective McGrath, that criminals, through their own action, attract attention to themselves, whereas, if they would go quietly about the ordinary concerns of life unafraid of detection and not strenuously trying to avoid detectives, they would never be caught.

The putative Mr. Whin has been photographed in many attitudes and from many angles. These pictures will be printed in the Post-Dispatch daily. In the meantime the original of these photographs will go quietly about his work collecting material for his novels, which appear exclusively in the Post-Dispatch.

He may sit next to you in the street car going home this evening; he may jostle your elbow in a crowd at a summer garden. You may have passed him half a dozen times today.

Intent upon gathering incident, character and local color, concerned in learning the intricacies of some business which figures largely in a forthcoming novel, he will go as he has gone, steadily and soberly about St. Louis.

When you meet him prove that you are more ingenious than he thinks you are. Say to him: "I recognize you as the Post-Dispatch novelist, Ivan Whin." That will mean $50 for you.

DIVED 60 FEET DOWN PRECIPICE TO DROWNING MAN

Edward Hopf Sprang Over Edge of Cliff Into Quarry Pond Into Which Joseph McDermott Had Tumbled Somersaults.

WHIRLED DOWN THE ROCKY SIDES OF DEEP CLIFF

Victim of Accident Helpless When Rescuer Strikes Water and Pushes Board Under His Chest for Life Preserver.

After tumbling in a series of somersaults, down the 60-foot precipice of the old Kavanaugh quarry at Natural Bridge road and Marcus avenue, Joseph McDermott, who dived from the top of the precipice into the water in which McDermott, helpless, was drowning.

The rescuer could reach the victim in time only by diving. To get to the bottom of the quarry in any other way would have been necessary for him to run two blocks before he could do that, McDermott would be dead.

Hopf took no chances, except on his own life. He sprang over the edge, landed safely in the water and got the drowning man ashore.

McDermott was walking along the edge of the old quarry when he stepped on a block of broken ice. This gave way beneath him.

As he began to fall he called. Hopf and some other men were at work 100 yards away, and turned as they heard the man scream.

Bounded Down Rocky Sides.
 The saw McDermott's body bounding down the precipitous side of the quarry, striking rocky projections every few feet, turning, whirling—now upright, now horizontal—always falling toward the deep pool of water at the bottom.

Hopf and his friends began to run. Hopf, speedier than the others, led the way, and soon after McDermott had struck the water he reached the edge of the quarry.

McDermott arose to the surface. He seemed helpless to save himself. He sank again.

Hopf did not hesitate. He sprang off the ledge, which projected somewhat so that he might drop clear of the sides of the quarry, and shot toward the water. He struck the surface some distance from the struggling McDermott, who had again risen to the surface.

Caught Him by Collar.
 The shock of the fall compelled the rescuer to swim around for a moment to recover strength. He moved toward him, and caught him by the collar and began slowly to tow him toward the shore.

A short distance away he found a wide board, while he pushed this board under McDermott's chest and made of it a life preserver. He then slowly pushed the board and its exhausted burden to the shore.

Hopf's friends, meantime, had run to the only place down which it is safe for a man to walk to the bottom of the quarry. As Hopf and McDermott came in reach of them, they dragged them upon the ground, and began the work of resuscitating McDermott.

A passerby had run to call an ambulance, and they were still working the ambulance came from the North End Dispensary, with Driver Brooks struck a record run. Brooks arrived and then carried McDermott up the steep hill on a stretcher. He was taken to the City Hospital, where it is said he will recover.

THUNDERSTORMS TO COOL AIR
 Electrical disturbances are again in evidence in the weather outlook, but after that comes a promise of cool weather.

The official forecast: "Severe thunderstorms this afternoon or tonight and cooler tonight. Sunday fair and cooler. Southeast winds, shifting to northerly."

The disturbance of wide area which has prevailed over the Missouri Valley and Kansas is expected to create unsettled conditions for a day or two. It is not unlikely that rains will prevail over the west and Northwest.

From the Western Plateau and Northern Rocky Mountain region falling temperatures are reported. The rivers in this section are slowly falling.

ROOSEVELT'S TACTFUL LETTER WHICH MAY BRING ABOUT PEACE

By Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, June 9.—Following is the full text of the peace note addressed jointly to Japan and Russia by President Roosevelt, as made public late this evening by Mr. Loeb, secretary to the President:

"On June 8 the following dispatch was sent by the President, through diplomatic channels, to the Japanese and Russian governments:

"The President feels that the time has come when, in the interest of all mankind, he must endeavor to see if it is not possible to bring to an end the terrible and lamentable conflict now being waged. With both Russia and Japan the United States has inherited ties of friendship and good will. It hopes for the prosperity and welfare of each, and it feels that the progress of the world is set back by the war between these two great nations. The President accordingly urges the Russian and Japanese governments, not only for their own sakes, but in the interest of the whole civilized world, to open direct negotiations for peace with one another. The President suggests that these negotiations be conducted directly and exclusively between the belligerents; in other words, that there may be a meeting of Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries or delegates without any intermediary, in order to see if it is not possible for these representatives of the two powers to agree to terms of peace. The President earnestly asks that the (Russian) (Japanese) Government do now agree to such a meeting, and is asking the (Japanese) (Russian) Government likewise to agree. While the President does not feel that any intermediary should be called in in respect to the peace negotiations themselves, he is entirely willing to do what he properly can, if the powers concerned feel that his services will be of aid in arranging the preliminaries as to the time and place of a meeting. But if, even these preliminaries can be arranged directly between the two powers, or in any other way, the President will be glad, as his sole purpose is to bring about a meeting which the whole civilized world will pray may result in peace."

WASHINGTON, June 10.—It was learned late this afternoon from an official and authoritative source that it has practically been determined that the plenipotentiaries of Japan and Russia who will discuss terms of peace will hold their sessions in Washington.

It is taken as a high compliment to American statesmen and to President Roosevelt that both Russia and Japan should show their trustfulness in the American policy of a "square deal" by negotiating in this country.

While there are precedents for a continuation of hostilities, it is thought probable that an armistice will be declared within a few hours, to continue while peace negotiations are on. It is believed that at present both armies have ceased all aggressive movements, and that with the naming of plenipotentiaries a limited suspension of hostilities will be formally declared.

TOKIO, June 10.—It is officially announced at the War Office that Japan has agreed to President Roosevelt's suggestion for ending the war, and will at once appoint plenipotentiaries to meet with Russian officials and talk peace terms. The meeting will probably take place on the Manchurian battlefield.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 10.—At the Foreign Office this afternoon it was officially stated that Russia is ready to appoint representatives to hear Japanese peace proposals as soon as it is learned that the Mikado is willing to appoint similar representatives.

YANKEE BRAND OF DIPLOMACY WORKS WHILE EUROPE PAUSES

LONDON, June 10, 5 p. m.—A St. Petersburg dispatch to the Times today says that the text of President Roosevelt's personal appeal to the sovereigns of the warring countries to arrange a meeting of the plenipotentiaries for the purpose of agreeing on terms of peace, which arrived this morning, rent the veil, and for the skeptics at St. Petersburg who refused to believe President Roosevelt's efforts to bring the belligerents together could succeed it came like a bombshell.

President's Roosevelt's sole purpose to bring about a meeting has been achieved, and now it is merely a question whether the results will be the peace.

It is a diplomatic triumph of the first magnitude and the diplomats there make no attempt to conceal their admiration for the New World brand of diplomacy, which works while the remainder of the world thinks.

The formal replies of Russia and Japan are expected to be transmitted through Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador at Washington, and M. Takahira, the Japanese Minister at Washington, but the situation is such at this hour as to leave no doubt of the acceptance of both, and that the question of the selection of the plenipotentiaries and the place of meeting will soon follow.

ACTION BY PRESIDENT INVITED BY THE CZAR.

BERLIN, June 10.—The text of President Roosevelt's message on the subject of peace to the Governments of Russia and Japan is regarded at the Foreign Office here as admirable in spirit and phrasing, and positive hope now exists of comparatively early peace.

The Russian Emperor, in fact, invited the action of the President, and had much to do with the form that the President's representations took. Emperor Nicholas, through the counsel of powerful personal influences in Russia, became disposed toward peace some days in advance of the President's action.

It was recognized at the Russian court and at this court also, that so man in the world could so well make an appeal for peace as President Roosevelt. His known views, the detachment of the United States from the European system and the good will Japan feels toward the United States made the President the military statesman who could take such a step without other side distracting him or feeling annoyed by his solicitude.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Henry Morphy, a country boy, comes to St. Louis to compare Washington Avenue. He is employed by Henderson-Allyn Shoe Co. and rises rapidly, being promoted to assistant manager. He is in the city and establishes retail branches in portions of the city where there is no business. He is a good trade in a general store. He is a good trade in a general store. He is a good trade in a general store.

CHAPTER VI.
A Modern Highwayman.

TWO strong men cannot live together in peace. Byron D. Allen made the mistake of his life when he permitted Henry Morphy to acquire a big block of Henderson-Allyn stock and agreed to that young man's terms. Miss Lindon's marriage to Morphy occurred in the privacy of a Presbyterian pastor's study and was witnessed by the pastor's wife and daughters. It was announced that evening to Mr. and Mrs. Allen and startled them as would lightning out of a clear sky.

Incidentally Mrs. Morphy made her husband absolute master of her wealth, without reservation, and he opened negotiations with Mr. Allen immediately. He wanted stock and he wanted a lot of it. Mr. Allen owned more than the control of the company. A little stock belonged to the Hendersons and the balance was in the possession of the company's employees under an agreement to hold it subject to Mr. Allen's perpetual option to buy.

Morphy demanded that Mr. Allen buy under that option old Fell's stock and the holdings of three other employees who, through age, were losing their value to the concern, and that he sell this stock to Morphy at par, without the usual option.

I say he demanded and practically that was his attitude, although his "suggestions" were courteously couched.

Miss Lindon's interest in the concern was a loan on notes that had been extended, enlarged and reduced as trade conditions affected the company's need for money over a term of years. This loan and the proceeds of some stock sales that were quickly made furnished the cash basis for Morphy's first move.

He wanted more than stock, however. He wanted a private agreement under which he was to be elected to the Board of Directors and made first vice-president with management of a department to be run according to his ideas for the extension of the business.

Allen had dictated terms to Henderson when he felt his own strength and the senior's weakness, but that episode did not now occur to him, nor could he see how this young protegee might out him, as he had ousted Henderson. The young man amused and enthused him and he granted his demands.

Thus, suddenly, the employees of the concern saw the unconsidered subordinate often the subject of their wit—rise meteorically from obscurity to a position of control. The thing was accomplished before any save those of the inner circle were aware.

The publication of the marriage was almost simultaneous with Morphy's elevation in the company, and all their world knew whose money elevated him.

Many marveled at what followed. The man who married money threw himself into the extension work with fiery energy. He announced to the trade that the branch system would be extended throughout all territory in which dealers preferred low prices to high quality, in other words, in all places where Henderson-Allyn shoes were not on sale.

He organized an advertising department and employed an expert to spend a generous appropriation. "We've been advertising to the trade and now we'll advertise to the shoe-buying public. Hereafter our ads have been about sales and increases in business; hereafter they will inform the public on the quality of our goods."

Mr. Allen, absorbed in launching a new factory and making the operation of a tannery smooth, gave Morphy large liberty. When these cars permitted he took up the work of the extension department and demanded the tale of results.

The showing was on the wrong side of the ledger. "It's too early," Morphy contended. "Give me a year."

"No more branches," was Mr. Allen's ultimatum and the board of directors supported him. He even shifted managers arbitrarily and ordered a retreat to the old advertising policy.

Several months of irritating conflict followed, but it ended suddenly. "Mr. Allen, I have some stock in Henderson-Allyn for sale," said Morphy one morning. "Although you haven't the usual option to buy I'd rather sell to you than in the market."

Mr. Allen looked up from some papers long enough to say: "Turn the certificates over to Martin and I'll give you my check this afternoon."

"My price is 240," Morphy said. "You bought at par less than a year ago."

"The book value of the stock is 240, it earns 25 per cent and it'll sell in the open market for 400," Mr. Allen said.

"You have 200 shares," Morphy said. "Yes."

"Mr. Allen's neck swelled and purpled apoplectically. He tried to speak but stuttered in his rage. "You—you—" Morphy's expression did not change and he did not move. He said, very coldly: "My price is 250."

The color fled from Mr. Allen's face and neck. He gazed open-mouthed at Morphy. "You highwayman!" he shrieked. "My price is 275," said Morphy. "Take you," shouted Mr. Allen, waving his arm before Morphy's face after the manner of traders in the wheat pit. "In gold," said Morphy. He was enjoying the moment; it saved his soul against the hurts of the past.

"Right," asserted Mr. Allen with another wave of his arm.

"Today," said Morphy, "before the banks close."

Mr. Allen collapsed into his chair, but nodded, and Morphy left him to his reflections.

New the gathering of $247,500 in gold for a trade transaction is not an easy task even in so large a city as St. Louis. Banks do not hold gold in large sums, preferring to have reserves in convenient bills which occupy small storage space and are more acceptable to customers than coin. And houses even as large as Henderson-Allyn are seldom in possession of so much cash in any form. But Mr. Allen managed to raise the needed money and secure it in gold. He did nothing else until the task was accomplished and the bags of gold coin were paid over to the nonchalant Morphy at his own bank.

There was no premium on gold at that time and Morphy had specified gold in the

A Good Mystery Story.

Miss Lily Dougall, author of the new mystery story, "The Summit House Mystery," which is rapidly passing from one edition to another, tells some interesting facts concerning its conception. She says: "A story which contained some of the main incidents here depicted was once told me by a venerable lawyer in one of the American cities of the Atlantic seaboard. Afterwards I made a four month's stay in those regions of wonderful beauty described in this book, and waiting a plot which would work in with those alternating moods of nature—the bloom, the awesomeness, the sylvan delight, and above all, the aspects of victorious calm—that distinguish mountain scenery from that of our everyday levels, the legal problem, which had taken strong hold upon my imagination, seemed to suggest a drama suited to the stage and scenery. The story, except its ending, was accordingly written. My final difficulty was that I could not find a solution to tally with my characters, and it was some years later that I woke up one morning among the Welsh mountains with the discovery of the last chapters clearly in my mind." She adds that "no one need think himself dull if he does not guess a conclusion which it took me half a dozen years to discover."

Trine's New Book.

Ralph Waldo Trine's new book, upon which he has been at work for some three years, dealing with present social, economic and life matters from the standpoint of "the great common people," will be published by the Crowell's. Over a quarter of a million of his "Life books" has already been published in the English editions alone. His "In Tune With the Infinite," published recently at Stuttgart by Ernst Schenck & Co., translated and with preface by the noted German scholar, Dr. Max Christlieb, is meeting with very great success, and two more of his books are under way for publishing in the fall by the same house.

Law Made Interesting.

The June number of the Green Bag will have three articles of interest to the general public.

"Some Legal Aspects of the Equitable Controversy," by a New York lawyer who has had an opportunity to become familiar with the facts, gives a narrative of the cause of the Equitable Life Assurance Company's difficulties, explains the legal relations of policy holders to New York insurance companies, and the right of the State to confer voting powers upon them, or to deprive stockholders of their rights. It also deals briefly with some of the charges of misconduct of directors.

"The North Sea Inquiry," by B. H. Conner of Paris, is a very interesting account of the methods used in presenting cases to the recent International Court of Inquiry, with a summary of the evidence offered, and the findings.

A discussion of "The Future of Poland" by David Bell Macgowan is announced for the July Century. Twelve Thousand Chicago Business Men.

We have received from the publishers, The Audit Co. of New York, through their Western manager, New York Life Building, Chicago, a copy of the fifth edition of the "Directory of Directors in the City of Chicago, 1906." The book contains the alphabetically arranged names of some 12,000 business men of Chicago, who are direct-ors in its various railways, banks, trust companies, manufacturing and other corporations; with an appendix containing the names of the officers and directors of leading corporations. The Directory is of the greatest value to financiers and others having large corporate interests under their control, and should find a place in the offices of the leading business men of Chicago and the West. Price $2.

Conversion.

"Brethren," said the venerable clergyman at the conference, "they tell us this money is tainted. But why should not money be born again? Why should it not be converted? Shall we not rather say that while the light holds out to burn the vilest money may return? Should there not be more joy over one dollar that repents than over ninety-nine that need no repentance?"

And the resolution to accept the money was passed with enthusiasm.—Puck.

MASS OF SORES

Awful Suffering of Little Boy from an Itching Humour

CURED BY CUTICURA

Not One Square Inch of Skin on His Whole Body Unaffected

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura, he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off tenderly times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy you never saw than he is to-day." ROBERT WATTAM, 4927 Centre Ave., Chicago, Ill., Dec. 30, 1897.

SIX YEARS LATER

Mr. Wattam writes

CARDINALS BID ADIEU TO QUAKERS

Last Game With Duffy's Hard Hitters Today—Brooklyn Comes Tomorrow.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEAGUE PARK, June 10.—Today's game was the last of the Cardinals-Quakers series and did not start until the Derby had been run at the track across the street.

There was a big gathering to see the farewell game with Duffy's players, who have grown to be great favorites by their aggressive style of play. A cordial reception is always accorded to the hard-hitting players from the City of William Penn.

Despite the three consecutive defeats, the Burkettes were given a hospitable reception for their clever work in practice, and hopes of the fans ran high that Burke would take at least one of the four games.

Sunday the Cardinals will have Ned Hanlon and his Brooklyn Superbas as guests. The local players on the Eastern trip took three out of four games from the Trolley Dodgers, and Burke said before today's game that he would make a complete sweep of it this time.

"Butter" Brower is still missing. In a wire to the Cardinal management he promised to report from Des Moines Saturday morning, but at game time he had not appeared at the office of the Cardinals.

DELAY COST WHITE FIGHT WITH BRITT

BIRMINGHAM, June 10.—There is talk of organizing a benefit entertainment here for the purpose of raising James White a token of appreciation of his pluck in connection with the meeting of Britt. The Middleander said that had he met Britt on the date originally fixed, April 26, he would have secured the championship for England. He said that he had not met Britt on the date originally fixed, April 26, and was never so fit in his life before the 10 days' delay and uncertainty attached to the meeting altogether took him out of his stride and materially affected him in the ring.

He experienced on all effects from the results of his grueling, he says, and is in the best of health despite his mill with Britt.

M. A. C. MEN COMPETE AT KANSAS CITY

A bitter contest is expected Saturday in the struggle for the team championship at the Western A. A. U. meet at Kansas City. The chief contenders for the trophy to be awarded to the successful team are the Missouri Athletic Club, Kansas City Athletic Club and the Nebraska University team. The latter institution is now a member of the Big Nine, and the Cornhuskers are confident of making a good showing today.

Oklahoma University has also entered a team, but it is not certain that this university will be represented when the events are run off.

The Missouri Athletic Club track team departed for Kansas City Friday night 30 strong. All the men are sanguine of winning the championship and expect their closest competition will come from the representatives of the Raw University and from the Nebraska entries.

Lou Dillon's Great Stride.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 10.—Lou Dillon, queen of all trotters, who has been in the hands of Bud Doble for three months in preparation for his great trial against time, to be made in the East, left for Cleveland, O., Friday the great mare was sent four miles, and while no effort was made to break her, the distance of miles covered was 2:31, the last quarter being done in 33, showing that the speed mare has not blackened her eye. A measurement of Lou's stride disclosed the fact that she steps 31 inches, which is remarkable in view of her weight.

THE MARKETS.

WHEAT ACTION IN
VERY NARROW RANGEKansas Crop Report Starts Slight
Bull Movement That Holds for the Day.

Wheat started out apparently for a good advance Saturday on the Kansas crop report, placing the condition of winter wheat at 77 June 1, against 92 last month and 86 April 1, and anticipating a decrease of at least 3 points in the Government report due at 3 p. m. The opening was high and then came an advance, but the day's trading was chiefly in the Government report, which was gathered, would show improvement sufficient to discount that report, and the movement was upward.

The figures predicted by private wire gossip for the Government report is 89, as against 82 1/2 May 3.

Trade in wheat was fairly active for a short day preceding the Government report, but was in a very narrow range.

July wheat opened 79c to 79 1/2c and ranged from 79 1/2c to 79 3/4c, and closed at 79 1/2c. Sept. wheat opened at 79 1/2c and ranged from 79 1/2c to 79 3/4c, and closed at 79 1/2c.

High grade wheat was scarce in the cash market and the demand was even lighter.

Good prices held for oats and corn. Local receipts: Wheat, 15,000 bu. local, 400 through; corn, 425 sacks and 25,000 bu. local, 400 bu. through; shipments: Wheat, 2,500 bu. through, 500 sacks and 8,500 bu. local, 400 bu. through.
